FEARS ON TOWN DRUG CLINIC B

By Katy Meaney

A DRUG and alcohol clinic, including a needle exchange, will move into Cannock's former post office, under new plans.

Addiction Dependency Solutions has submitted proposals to open the service in the town centre building in Ras studinticed proposals to open the service in the town centre building in Church Street.

It comes after the same scheme earmarked for the former progressive working men's club, opposite the entrance to South Staffordshire College, was called 'ludicrous' and thrown out by council planning bosses in February.

If given the go-ahead, the One Recovery Staffordshire Service would be open five days a week for people aged over 19 with substance misuse problems.

The clinic would be next to Boots and Halifax and would provide a 'range of treatments and recovery options' including doctor appointments and sterile injecting equipment.

But the central location for the clinic has been criticised by regeneration boss Councillor Diane Todd, who said the building is not the right place for the service. "Having this service by the bus station wasn't the right place but this isn't either," she said.

"I really won't be happy with it there. I know the service is looking for a new place but a central location is not right for the rest of the town.

"The people using this service are vulnerable and dependant and I would not feel comfortaand dependant and I would not feel comfortable having this service next to Boots and cash machines. I would urge them to look elsewhere, somewhere more discreet. Other people don't want, or need, to see this right in the middle of town. We have a good shopping area, and I think having this in the centre will put people and businesses off coming to the town."

The clinic will have more than 500 users, and there would be 13 members of support and clinical staff. There is some support for the centre and its new planned location.

Cannock Council leader George Adamson said the service needs to be somewhere central.

Cannock Council leader George Adamson said the service needs to be somewhere central.

"We do need this service and it needs to be somewhere in the town centre so that people can access," he said. "It is a bit more secluded in Church Street than the previous proposal."

Bosses from Addiction Dependency Solutions say they operate a 'very positive service' and that negative behaviour by clients is rare.

The planning application states: "The likelihood of the effects impacting on the community outside of our premises are small. However, in order to ensure we take the needs of our local community into account we have enacted local community into account we have enacted local policies to monitor the areas surrounding our premises."

Last month a 12-bed supported house for recovering addicts opened in the town centre, and the former Bistro 95 opened as a tea room run Staffordshire County Council and Stafford Borough Council will sign a contract with authorities in the north of the county and Cheshire. Bosses want to work out how to capitalise on the £50 billion railway line and make the most of the investment that comes with it.

But critics say it will take the emphasis away.

But critics say it will take the emphasis away

But critics say it will take the emphasis away from the Midlands when it is trying to compete with the 'northern powerhouse' that the Government wants to create.

The new group has been dubbed the 'Northern Gateway Partnership', aiming to 'unlock major new growth and investment opportunities' which could deliver more than 100,000 new homes and 120,000 jobs by 2040.

It involves Cheshire East Council, Cheshire West and Chester Council, Newcastle-under-Lyme Borough Council, Stoke-on-Trent City Council, Cheshire and Warrington Local Enterprise Partnership, Stoke and Staffordshire LEP and Staffordshire Moorlands DC.

Leaders say this is not the start of a wider merger, with Stoke-on-Trent's deputy leader Abi Brown insisting it is 'not intended to be a part of the devolution debate'. Critics have suggested that the Staffordshire councils should part of the devolution debate*. Critics have suggested that the Staffordshire councils should look at making sure HS2 benefits the Midlands, rather than joining a group that appears to be branded with a focus on the north.

The high-speed rail route would cut through stretches of Staffordshire countryside and was originally opposed by the county council.

Anti-HS2 campaigner Trevor Forrester, who lives in Ingestre, said: "HS2 is a colossal waste of money and will do huge damage to the countryside. And now this shows that all the focus is on the north of England."

But Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire LEP chairman David Frost said: "We need to look outward rather than just inward. If you look from North Staffordshire across junction 16 of the M6 and linking into Crewe – that is the corridor we want to develop. And if HS2 comes to Crewe we will need to maximise the benefits."

County council leader Philip Atkins said: "In Staffordshire, we have a strong record of working with our partners and neighbours to create new jobs and deliver economic growth."

HE was the golden boy of boxing – but his career was changed forever when an opponent died days after a bout, sparking a battle with depression.

Ray 'Boom' Mancini was in Cannock to share his colour life story with fans and fellow boxers.

The former World Lightweight Champion is probably best known for the infamous fight against South Korean boxer Deuk Koo Kim, who died from severe brain injuries after the fight at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

At Bar Sport's Premier Suite the boxer spoke of the tragic fight as well as the highs he experienced in his rise in the sport. Scott Murray, owner of Bar Sport's Premier Suite, said: "It was just a surreal night that somehow managed to exceed all of my expectations. He was great with the fans, posing for pictures and taking the time to talk with them, but his speech was amazing.

"He was my favourite fighter growing up, so to think now that not only have I met him, but he has come to Cannock as my guest, it is amazing. It was a once in a lifetime thing for me. The night all round was perfect, it is great for people in Cannock to get to see some of the biggest names in sport on their doorstep.

"Ray said he loved the area because it reminded him of Ohio, where he was born," Mr Murray added.

Mancini's appearance marks the latest in a long line of stars to visit the Cannock bar.

Other legends to appear include Sugar Ray Leonard and Tommy 'The Hitman' Hearns. $\,$ receive new Filipino nurses as bosses look to ease a staffing crisis.

Two teams from the Royal Wolverhampton Hospitals NHS Trust, which runs Cannock Hospital, are heading to the Philippines to recruit the nurses.

They will work at New Cross Hospital, Cannock Chase Hospital and West Park Hospital in Wolverhampton.

David Loughton, the trust's chief executive, said the teams will interview more than 1,000 candidates.

Previously, because of UK immigration laws, the trust could recruit staff only from the EU, but last month the Government made a U-turn to solve the staffing shortage in the NHS.

However, this applies only until March, meaning that the 200 nurses will have to be recruited by then.

IN MY VIEW

Man, that ridiculous PC crowd are back

REALLY, I should be livid that the politically-correct barmpots have taken it upon themselves to indoctrinate our children yet further by banning the use of phrases such as 'sissy' or 'man-up' in the playground.
Aside from the fact that I am fairly sure

Aside from the fact that I am fairly sure that no schoolchild has said 'sissy' since about 1975, I do think the way that the education system abuses its privileged position to brainwash impressionable youngsters with political correctness and green ideology is one of the most sinister developments of the past 20 years or so. Particularly as it has coincided with Britain's schools plunging down the world league tables in the things that really do matter, like reading, writing, and doing sums.

any to matter, like feating, writing, and doing sums.
Groups of pupils will also be encouraged to inform on their peers to an appointed "Gender Champion". Wasn't that sort of thing supposed to have died out with the fall of the Berlin Wall and all that?

And wat strangely enough L do find

And yet, strangely enough, I do find myself agreeing with the PC brigade on at least one aspect of this assault on free speech.

'Man-up' is a truly hateful phrase, and children really should be taught that it is never acceptable to use it. In this context at least, 'man' is a noun, not a verb. Yes you can man a car park. But you can't man-up, man-down or anything else. That's why teachers should be telling them it's banned.

A NEW survey, compiled by a think-tank nobody has ever heard of, says Wol-verhampton and Sandwell are the two most miserable places in the UK.

Really? I can't believe that, I mean what do people in the West Midlands have to be miserable about?

After all, it's not as if we are constantly patronised by a liberal London elite which seems to reven in forcing its strange values on us, is it?

AND I bet if the people in power actually did start listening to folk in this area, they could save a bit of money.

Over the past few months we have been repeatedly been told how ministers of successive government were dazzled and 'mesmerised' by Camilla Batmanghelidjh, and were persuaded into pouring millions of pounds into the appallingly managed Kids Company. All the evidence suggests that much of this money has been wasted.

Yet, I bet if they had sought the advice of anybody from the Black Country, they would not have been 'mesmerised' at all. They would have come to the same conclusion that I did several years ago.

That Camilla Batmanghelidjh was just a fruitcake in silly clothes. And think how many police stations that would have paid for.

Mr Booth was able to return to LBK6 around 10 years ago. The boat is now the home of the Harwich and Dovercourt Sailing Club

THE Chronicle's letters page on October 22 gave me considerable amusement. One letter suggested that capping private rents will ease the welfare burden when all that would happen is the accommodation.

when all that would happen is the accommodation would disappear from the rental market. Another asserts the collapse of capitalism is inevitable, and a third praised Mr Corbyn's policies.

The only thing that seems inevitable to me is that a lot of people will keep deluding themselves.

At last The Lords is LETTERS TO THE EDITOR helping vulnerable

FOR the first time in my 72-year memory, The Lords has done something worthwhile for the more vulnerable members of our society, in the face of the ongoing hard-nosed financial persecution of the sick, elderly and disabled. It had to be stopped, with domiciliary care, hospital care, residential care, mental care and district nursing all in crisis. Mismanagement of finances in the NHS and social care is rife, wasted in a sea of top-down management, while at the coalface, staff are conspicuous by their absence with patient care suffering as a result.

Meanwhile, the Government hands out millions to local authorities that is not ring fenced for the purpose for which it is intended, which financially hard-pressed local authorities redirect to other areas they see fit.

Bag charge could help reduce the NHS debt

I HAVE an idea to help reduce the £950m NHS debt. We have to pay 5p for carrier bags, but if the NHS had their own carrier bag with a logo on it 'I helped save the NHS' and sold them for 6p, the consumer could choose to buy these and all the profits go to reducing the NHS debt.

They could obviously have more expensive bags too, ie bags for life etc.

Aby Skett, office executive, said: "The team are delighted to have won this latest tender.

"This is great news for Sketts and for Cannock. We're looking forward to working with all the traders on this market to make it a viable and exciting place to visit.

"We're already meeting with all the traders, and we're then planning our soft relaunch on December 18, to include a special visit from Santa himself.

"We're looking forward to working with Cannock Chase Council in the coming months in taking this market forward and bringing our own touches, such as quality bringing our own touches, such as quality

Jobs boost is just capital

Philip Rowley, left, of Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking, and Gavin Webber, director at Retail Interior Solutions

A CANNOCK-BASED shopfitting business has secured a number of contracts and created six jobs after securing a £250,000 working capital facility with Lloyds Bank.

Retail Interior Solutions com-pletes shop refit projects for well-known brands such as KFC, Byron Burger, Pret A Manger and Staples across the UK and Ireland.

In the past 12 months the firm, based at Hemlock Park, experienced a surge in demand from fast-food businesses and turned to long-term banking provider Lloyds Bank Commercial Banking for support. The bank's commercial finance team provided a working capital facility that allows it to begin new projects without disrupting its day-to-day cashflow requirements.

Retail Interior Solutions is now Ketail Interior Solutions is now working with fast food chain Taco Bell to launch its new branch in Nottingham, and is working on a five-year project with KFC to re-vamp a number of its UK outlets.

The business, established in 2009, has taken on six new staff, growing its workforce to 19.

HUNDREDS of votes have been cast in the Best Local Shops and Market Stalls competition for Cannock Chase.

Best Local Shops and Market Stalls competition for Cannock Chase.

The competition, which will see local shops and market stalls fighting it out to be crowned the best in the district, has now received endorsement from the Government's top business minister.

The Secretary of State for Business, Innovation and Skills, The Rt Hon Sajid Javid MP, has thrown his support behind the competition and has wished all the nominated businesses 'good luck'. He said: "This competition is a great way for people to show support for their favourite local and look forward to seeing and look forward to seeing the results."

Cannock Chase MP Amanda Milling said: "I am delighted The Rt Hon Sajid Javid MP has thrown his support behind the competition."

She said: "The competition is really hotting up."

The event was held in honour of Walsall's Well Wishers charity.

Mr Moody, of Walsall, is a lung cancer patient at the town's Manor Hospital and following diagnosis and treatment vowed to support Walsall Healthcare NHS Trust's fundraising efforts to buy a medical thoracoscopy machine, which costs up to £50,000.

The machine uses a special telescope to examine and perform a biopsy on the pleaura – the lining that covers the lung. Currently, Walsall patients have to travel to Birmingham or Dudley, and this piece of equipment would mean speedier biopsies and diagnoses.

History centre progress

PLANS which could see the development of a multi-million pound modern history centre for Staffordshire have moved a step closer. The plans have been agreed by the Staffordshire joint archives committee and could see the creation of a history centre on the existing records office site in Eastgate Street, Stafford. The Staffordshire Archives Service is responsible for millions of historical records documenting the county's history. The proposals follow months of consultation and will now see an application for funding made to the Heritage Lottery in December.

Anslow fails to get drug convictions overturned

JOHN Anslow has failed in an Appeal Court bid to overturn his drugs convictions.

Anslow was at the head of a major drugs ring which sold and distributed cocaine and cannabis across the West Midlands. The 35-year-old became Britain's most wanted man after he was violently sprung from a prison van outside HMP Hewell near

Lavish

However, his complaints were thrown out by top judges, who said the decision to go ahead with the trial could not be criticised and Anslow had only himself to blame for his absence.

The court also dismissed an anneal against his sen an appeal against his sentence, saying it was 'not excessive'.

A police investigation into the drugs ring revealed Anslow was at its head and its heavestice.

Anslow was at its head and in charge of the operation. While running the outfit he lived a lavish lifestyle. His drug network stretched across the globe and he spent £36,000 sponsoring Wolves matches and players, splashed thousands of pounds on holidays in the Caribhean and met high. Caribbean and met highlevel criminal associates in Thailand. As the net closed

Katie fund tops £4,000

EST 1980

A FUND set up after a Lichfield woman died when a whale-watching boat sank off the coast of Canada has passed the £4,000 mark. Katie Taylor, aged 29, died near Vancouver Island on October 25. She was one of five Britons killed and had been living in the ski resort town of Whistler in British Columbia, where she worked at Whistler Day Spa. A donation page on Go Fund Me at www.gofundme.com/4c7e2t3g has raised almost 8,000 Canadian dollars. The money raised by the appeal will help her family travel to Canada in order to return her body to the UK.

Fireworks deaths file is handed to the CPS

A FILE of evidence from a fireworks blaze that killed two Hednesford men has been handed to the Crown Prosecution Service.

"It has been a challenging and lengthy inquiry due to the total destruction of the premises and the volume of witnesses and experts con-sulted as part of the investigation.

Keeping those ailments at bay

WINTER conditions can be seriously bad for our health, especially for people aged 65 or older and people with long-term conditions.

The cold and damp weather, ice, snow and high winds can all aggravate any existing health problems and make us more vulnerable to illnesses that are more com-

Being cold can raise the risk of increased blood pressure, heart attacks and strokes. But there are lots of things you can do to stay well this winter.

Feeling unwell?

Don't wait – get advice from your nearest pharmacist.

Winter can make existing health problems worse. So if you feel like you're coming down with something, even if it's just a cough or a cold, don't wait until it gets worse. Act quickly. Pharmacists are fully qualified to advise you on the best course of action.

Is your medicine cabinet ready for the winter?

Most common winter ailments, such as a cold, sore throat, cough, sinusitis or middle ear infection, can't be treated with antibiotics. The best thing to do is:

- Drink plenty of fluids
 Have at least one hot meal a day to keep your en- ergy levels up

 Talk to your pharmacist for advice on getting any pain relief you need such as paracetamol or ibuprofen. Take medicines as directed

If you've been prescribed antibiotics or any other medication, make sure you take them as directed

Make sure you get your flu jab

The flu virus strikes in winter and it can be far more serious than you think. That's why the flu jab is free if you're aged 65 or over. Just speak to your GP.

How to protect your health in the winter

A MAJOR drive to help people stay well this winter has been launched by Public Health England and NHS England.

The NHS Stay Well This Winter campaign is urging people aged 65 or over, or those with long-term health conditions, such as diabetes, stroke, heart disease or respiratory illness, to prepare for winter with advice on how to ward off common illnesses.

The campaign is asking the pub-

- Make sure you get your pre-scription medicines before pharmacies close on Christmas Eve.
- Always take your prescribed medicines as directed.

The Stay Well This Winter campaign will make sure that people have the information they need to help them look after themselves this winter and also to know the best place to go for urgent advice, whether that's their local pharmacy, NHS Choices, NHS phone number 111 or accident and emergency.

As in previous years the flu vaccine programme is an important part of this campaign.

The adult flu vaccine will be offered free to those in groups at particular risk of infection and complications from flu including those age 65 or over, those age under 65 with long-term health conditions. pregnant women and carers.

Vaccination

This year, for the first time, all our youngest primary school children will be eligible to receive the free nasal spray vaccine, making this the largest school-based vaccination programme in England involving children in 17,000 schools.

The children's flu vaccine programme will seek to help more than three million two to six year olds, as the programme is extended to children in school Years 1

Parents are encouraged to complete consent forms in order to allow immunisation teams to administer the nasal spray flu vaccine to their children.

The campaign is urging people to prepare for winter

For those children in areas where the vaccination is not of-fered through schools, they will be offered the vaccination at their local GP or pharmacy.

Gym piles up pounds in 5K fundraiser

Rugeley Gymophobics members get on their marks with Lions mascot Lenny

MEMBERS and staff at Gymophobics Rugeley put their best foot forward by holding a 5K charity event to help support the cause of a young girl with Friedreich Ataxia whose mother and aunt are known to the gym.

More than 30 women power walked or ran the course to complete a lap of the town and were happy to see the pounds put on by raising sponsorship money. The event was organised in collaboration with Rugeley and District Lions Club who provided the marshals, and all entrants received a certificate of appreciation for taking part. Gymophobics Rugeley owner Joanna Rigby said: "This is the first of what hopefully will become an annual charity event. I am very proud of my lady members and team who rallied to this cause."

Family are the first to get new kidney drug tling a hereditary disease are set to be among the first in the country to use the only drug developed to treat the condition.

Four-year-old Charlie Turner, his father Craig and aunt Debbie all have polycystic kidney disease, which leads to kidney failure.

And the condition has killed Craig's father and grandmother in recent years. It inspired Charlie's mother Kay to launch a fundraising campaign to help research into the condition.

And now the family are set to benefit from the first drug developed to treat it. They say it is a 'huge step forward and could transform their lives.

Craig could be given a trial course of Tolyaptan, while Debbie is also likely to be offered it in the future.

And while it is thought Charlie is too young to take it at the moment, the drug is likely to be in widespread use by the time he turns 18.

Change

The medicine could mean Craig, Debbie and Charlie do not end up with kidney failure and needing a transplant. Tolvaptan is available on the NHS at Birmingham's Queen Elizabeth Hospital. Until now, many of the 60,000 patients with PKD in the UK did not have access to any treatment. Kay said: "It's great news and will completely change Charlie's life when he gets older. Until now we have always been told it wasn't cost-effective so it shows that all the hard work is paying off."

In January the family were hit by the news that more cysts had been

In January the family were nit by the news that more cysts had been discovered growing on three-year-old Charlie's kidneys. And they must now wait for another scan next March to see if they have got any worse. Mrs Turner, 33, has decided to focus on her charity campaign as a release

Debbie Turner, left, and Charlie T from the stress of day-to-day life. She said: "It takes the focus off what's going on. I would crumble if I didn't have this to concentrate on – it's really helping me." Charlie's father Craig, 37, found out he has the disease when he was checked by doctors after volunteering to donate a kidney to his sister Debbie, who also has the condition.

His father Phillip died of a brain haemorrhage caused by the disease 14 years ago, aged 42, and his grandmother Jean died before him of the same condition.

The disease has varying levels of seriousness – but there is little medication available to treat it at its more serious stages. It can cause enlargement of the kidneys and also damage the liver, pancreas and, in some rare cases, the heart and brain.

Craig, a manager for a delivery firm in Tamworth, is currently continuing with life as normal other than taking blood pressure tablets and having regular check-ups.

More than 100 people took part in a 5km run around Chasewater Country Park organised by Kay in aid of the Polycystic Kidney Charity in July.

Health bosses have hailed the introduction of the drug as a milestone.

Chase Line tunnel work gathers pace

e arched walls alongside the railway track are visible from Park Street as work continues on the tunnel

WORK to rebuild a railway tunnel as part of a scheme which will enable electric trains to run on the Chase Line is gathering pace. The structure under Park Street in Walsall town centre is being overhauled as part of work to electrify the 15-mile route to Rugeley Trent Valley.

The work started last year and was originally scheduled to be completed by July this year.

Network Rail intends to suspend the work at the end of this month to avoid disruption over the Christmas shopping period before restarting in January, with Easter 2016 the date bosses have given for completion.

Meanwhile, the electrification side of the plans will not be finished until the end of 2017.

be finished until the end of 2017.

Councillor Mohammed Arif, who represents St Matthews ward on Walsall Council, said: "Sometimes we don't actually realise what we are walking on – Park Street is such a busy street in the town centre but sometimes work of this nature has to be done, just like anywhere else."

The tunnel dates back more than 100 years. Network Rail director Liam Sumpter said: "A significant amount of work is required to upgrade the railway, and much is already under way or completed as part of our investment."

Firefighter sick days go up a third in one year shire firefighters has increased by a third in 12 months - despite an NHS troubleshooter being brought in to tackle the problem.

Figures show that the 318 firefighters were off for 2,468 days in 2014-15 - 615 more than the year before when there were 327 full-time firefighters.
The amount of days missed due to stress also increased to 324 from 289 over the two years

By Carl Jackson Sickness days fell by 241 to the two years.

Staffordshire Fire and Rescue Service have blamed the figures on a small number of staff who have been ber of staff who have been off long-term.

Absence was flagged up as a major problem in 2013 after a substantial rise in workers calling in sick.

The 1,654 days missed in 2011-12 jumped by 25 per cent to 2,094 the year after.

And time off for stress more than doubled from 129 days to 363 in the period.

As a result the service brought in a 'health and wellbeing coordinator' from the NHS and established health 'champions' within health 'champions' within departments to encour-age staff to exercise more and look after their health.

Sickness days fell by 241 to 1,853 in 2013-14 while those put down to stress also fell by 74 to 289.

But now both figures have risen again in 12 months.

The figures, obtained through the Freedom of Information Act, also showed that in the last three years, absence had also increased absence had also increased among retained firefighters.

From 2012-13 to 2013-14
the amount of sickness days

FOCUS ON PENKRIDGE

Author in book launch at library PENKRIDGE author Diane Pike launches her book Three Noisy chickens to the Rescue this month. The event will take place on Tuesday, November 17 from 3pm to 5pm at Penkridge Library. "I have invited children and parents to attend, and during the parents to attend, and during the sessential, well-used town library.

parents to attend, and during the session I will read and share my book at 3.30pm, 4pm and 4.30pm,"

Diane said. The book, a children's winter story suitable for two to six-year-olds, is part of a trilogy about Grandma and her three chickens.

Diane added: "The residents of Penkridge have stood strong against the issue of closure to our essential, well-used town library, and I am honoured to launch my book at this venue."

Kim Nash, Sue Watson and Mim Deakin at the book launch in Cannock months ago with cafe owners Mim Deakin and Steve Garrett, said: "Sue is a rising star in the writing world and has established a large following, so it was a real coup to get her to come along. "Bella's Christmas Bake Off is Sue's sixth novel. She's established herself as a best-selling romantic comedy writer in the UK as well as having titles published in both Italy

BEST-SELLING author Sue Watson chose a popular tea room in Cannock as the venue for the launch of her latest novel, Bella's Christmas Bake Off.

Mim's Cafe and Coffee Bar in North Street is hosting a monthly book club, and Sue agreed to tie in a visit with the book launch.

"Most of my book have a cake theme in them so launching my lat-est title in a tea room seemed ab-solutely perfect," said 45-year-old Sue.

Sue gave a reading from the book, signed copies for club members and stayed for tea and cake and a chat. Kim Nash, from Hednesford, who set up Book Club at Mim's two

"I would urge companies across Cannock

Chase to take advantage of this initiative, which aims to assist 10,000 businesses and create 500 new local jobs within the GB-SLEP area."

Approval

Cannock-based SK Direct (UK) Ltd, which imports and converts adhesive industrial tapes, has already used services available through the Growth Hub. It secured £13,000 of Business Development Programme grant funding, which is supported by the European Regional Development Fund, enabling the firm to expand its premises and create one extra full-time post.

The company's co-owner Don Brown said: "The help and support from the Cannock economic development team preparing and completing the application was excellent. "I am a larger lady so going to a normal gym can be very intimidating hence my decision to join Gymophobics.
As I walked through those doors my heart was pounding my palms sweating and I felt very anxious.
I felt I was walking into the unknown. The minute I stepped in I was greeted by friendly hellos from the staff and clients alike.

My body became less tense and I thought hey this is a friendly place. The loss journey. There are no mirrors, no men, and no one looking at you making you feel you should not be there. I am only in my 3rd week and it's only after today's visit do I feel like I know what I'm doing lol, I felt silly at first because I couldn't get to grips with changing the seat and settings and worried I was being a nuisance to the instructors but not one of them moaned or pulled a face. They are always happy to help. I love it and the 30 minutes go so quick. It is the best thing I have done and so glad I was reccomended. So remember as you walk through those doors instead of saying tonight

Matthew I am going to be. Say today I'm going to get fitter ...don't put off till tomorrow what you can do today because tomorrow never comes. Thank you Jane and your dedicated team xx'

STELLA

It may be daunting before beginning the fitness journey but it really is worth it. You are made welcome from the outset and supported throughout visits by lovely staff who also provide advice. Fitness classes are hard but great. I would recommend highly to women of all ages, and let's just say I'm a mature person smile emoticon it really is a fab place to go.

"I felt that I needed to do something for 'me' that would empower me. chemo had loads of side effects including putting weight on. I have walked past gymophobics many times and wished I was one of the motivated people inside. At last I am! I have lost 1 stone 3lbs in 6 weeks by using the gym and following their Low Sugar Food Plan. I feel in control of some part of my life at last. The team are so good at what they do and developed a workout that suits me and all my limitations. I would and do say to anyone thinking about walking through the door 'DO IT' you > have nothing to lose and 'EVERYTHING' to gain."

"I decided that at almost 13 stone (I am only 5' 2") and needing a mobility scooter to get around, my life wasn't as I wanted it to be. So I joined the 'club' at Gymophobics (with trepidation). I haven't looked back since. I am now 11 stone 3lbs and feeling fitter than I have for years and walking everywhere. I have even been on a couple of short holidays on my own for the first time in five years. I am 86 and feeling fine. thanks girls you are 'gems."

"Eight weeks ago me and Simone decided we needed to make a change - we came in and met Jo and she booked us in. I have been attending three times a week and with some trials I have finally balanced my eating habits and feel so much better. All the ladies that work there are professional but fun, encouraging and just amazing. Other people that come here are lovely. I love the atmosphere and look forward to coming. So eight weeks on I have lost 14.5 inches and 13lbs. It works and it's fun. Keep up the amazing work you do. PS Simone has lost 9lbs and 15 inches!"

Fine dining - raise a glass to quality Thai food

Chef Suree's a winner as King and Thai retains its number one crown of Shropshire's most decorated chefs, having been named the UK Thai Chef of the Year a couple of years back and then bettering that by being crowned the Asian Chef of the Year.

Chef of the Year.

More recently, her qualities have been recognised by The Good Food Guide, where inclusion is hard to come by; in Shropshire, only seven restaurants feature.

The King & Thai in Broseley is listed in that as a Local Gem and deserving of inclusion. Suree is one of the county's best. Arguably her greatest ability is to fashion exciting and exotic flavours that are deep, rich and rewarding.

Her freshly-made sauces and pastes are heavenly. She learned how to make them where she used a pestle and mortar to comwhere she used a pestle and mortar to combine freshly-picked herbs and aromats. She uses the same techniques to this day – and it shows. Suree offers dishes that offer the same flavours that you'd find in downtown Phitsanulok. Her flavours are vibrant and Pritsanulok. Her navours are vibrant and subtle; explosive and entertaining. She's a crackerjack cook who has as good an under-standing of Asian seasonings as any chef in the county.

My friend and I have eaten at The King

My friend and I have eaten at the King & Thai frequently. For this critic's shilling, it remains the county's number one; with Ludlow's Chang Thai Bar and Shrewsbury's recently-opened Aroi Thai not far behind. Suree moves ahead of her good-but-stabetter vivels on most fronts, which support heads to the proof fronts which support fronts which the support of the support fronts. not-better rivals on most fronts: principally presentation, innovation and flavour.

When we arrived, the helpful and bubbly waitress showed us through to the dining room. It was festooned with Buddhas, col-ourful photographs and other Thai ephem-era. The menu featured the normal Thai classics in addition to numerous specials. Starters include a duck dim sum with plum sauce. Alongside that was a Thai custard. served in a mini pumpkin, with prawns.

My friend opted for the duck dim sum while I ordered chicken satay. Both were delicious. The dim sum - some crunchy-fried and some soft-and-steamed - were light and boldly seasoned. The plum sauce was swirled concentrically across the plate and provided a balanced accompaniment.

The satay was brilliant. My friend and I swapped dim sum for satay in an impromptu game of Thai mix'n'match.

We thought long and hard about the

She provided a tasting platter, including a playful coconut panna cotta, an indulgent chocolatey, fudgey cube that was dense, rich and satisfying and more. The only underwhelming element was a deep-fried ice cream sandwich.

Suree deserves all credit for pushing the envelope when it comes to Thai cuisine. Unlike most local, neighbourhood chefs, she creates imporpating dishes desired.

The stars shine brightly in aid of a good cause ow to transform yourself from smooth-talking professional to dribbling idiot in one easy move host a live TV show.

Those watching at home may think standing in front of a camera and reading an autocue is easy, but for presenters, it can be a living goes wrong and they're left to fill in dead air'.

Arguably the biggest and most difficult live TV event of the year is Children in Need, thanks in no small part to the fact it lasts for such a long time. What's more, this year it's being broadcast or Friday 13th – surely a recipe for disaster if ever there was one?

one?
Well, maybe not. After all, it's in the safe hands of Terry Wogan, who seems to thrive on such occasions. He will be joined for the first part of the evening by Tess Daly, who is no stranger to live TV, having co-hosted Sirictly Compancing with, initially, Bruce Forsyth and latterfy with Claudia Winkleman, for the past 11 years. But even she could learn a thing or two from Sir

Terry who makes the whole process seem completely effortless — perhaps it's because he's so affable and always does his best to make those appearing in the studio at their ease:

"I'm not a confrontational interviewer," explains Wogan. "It would be easy to be abrasive, but nobody would want to come on the show. Sometimes an interview I think didn't go well was actually very good, and vice versa. You're not always the best judge yourself."

Despite retiring from his radio show, Terry is as busy as ever, but he claims he'll always have time for this fundraiser.

"It is always a privilege and pleasure, the highest point of my year, to present BBC Children in Need," he says. "This year we are hoping the great British public will give us even more. We've certainly got a fantastic show line-up this year. I know I say that every year but this year really is special."

Although the BBC's first Children's Appeal arrived in 1927, the first telethon version didn't appear on our screens until in 1980, and the aim each year is to beat the previous total. Seeing as a record £32, £20, £49 was raised on the night in 2014, the fundraisers have a tough task ahead of them, but hopefully the public will be inspired to dig deep by the serious stories they hear as well as the entertainment on offer.

Among the highlights on offer during the first, two-and-a-half-hour stint are performances by Ellie Goulding, the Children's Choir, Rod Stewart and Jess Glynne, who performs the evening's official song, Take Me Home.

Also popping up is a Strictly special, which sees Bruce Forsyth return to which sees Bruce Forsyth return to the ballroom to host an edition featuring the stars of Call the Midwife – has their colleague Helen George, who is currently taking part in the dance challenge, been giving them tips?

Then, in the second half after the news, Rochelle Humes and Nick Grimshaw take over from Daly and help Wogan keep the ball rolling into the wee small hours.

The Shopper's Guide to Saving Money Channel 4, 8,30pm

We work hard all week, perhaps hoping to let our hair down by indulging in some retail therapy once we clock off. With that in mind, it would be nice to think that when we do splash out, we're getting value for money. But is that the case? This new four-part programme introduced by Dave Fishwick and Kate Quilton hopes to answer that question by investigating whether we really do get our money's worth for goods and services. They hear from big corporations and industry insiders about how much certain products cost to make before offering tips on securing the best deals for such items as jeans airline tickets, diamonds, perfume, gas bills and even funerals. But they begin by looking at the cost of taking care of man's best friend before delving into the world of printer ink.

Christmas all wrapped up at shopping centre

CHRISTMAS IN STAFFORDSHIRE

THIS year, let Cannock Shopping Centre take care of your Christmas.

Whether you are picking out the perfect present for that special someone at Chatwins Jewellers, stocking up on festive cards at Card Stop, or finding a party dress at New Look or Trendy Tanya, you're bound to find what you need to make your Christmas one to remember.

Local children are invited to post their letters to Santa at a very special post box within the shopping centre.

elves will then collect all the letters and give them to the big man himself. Each child will receive a personal reply in time for Christmas.

On Saturday, December 5, Santa will be taking time out of his very busy schedule to visit the children of Cannock. He will be handing out free sweets and posing for photos throughout the day. There will also be a face painter to add to the festive fun.

Don't miss out:

Show certain to be absolute ball

Panto time - Jodie Hamblet and Naomi Gisbey as Cinderella

THE classic fairytale of Cinderella is this year brought to life by PMA Productions Ltd in conjunction with the Prince of Wales Theatre.

Following last year's box office success The Sleeping Beauty we are delighted to be presenting the most popular of pantos.

A talented cast has been assembled for the production, running from December 19-29, which includes Jodie Hamblet of My Mad Fat Diary, Shameless and currently ITVs Home Fires

Jodie is currently filming the second series of Home Fires but is very much looking forward to playing Fairy Godmother in Cinderella.

Funny man and Cannock's favourite dame. Keith De' Winter returns as ugly sister, Conchita, partnering Hollyoaks Darren John Langford as Juanita.

Supported

Straight from the UK National No.1 Tour of Blood Brothers, popular Karl Greenwood returns to the Prince of Wales to play Buttons.

The professional cast are supported

Cinderella - a talented cast

Sam Pope returns to the Civic too to play the handsome Prince but will the carriage take Cinderella to the ball and meet her Prince Charming or will the wicked step-mother and ugly sisters spoil the party. Join this spectacular musical comedy pantomime to find out. You are guaranteed all the traditional ingredients of a fun-filled, family pantomime including stunning sets and costumes, lots of comedy and plenty of audience participation.

CHRISTMAS IN STAFFORDSHIRE

Step back in time to the 19th century

PENKRIDGE Victorian Christmas Market is the annual event that thousands look forward to, marking the start of the festive season.

With over 100 stalls of fabulous food and local crafts, as well as plenty of entertainment, it's no wonder thousands of people attend every year.

This year it will be taking place on Friday, November 27, from 5pm to 9pm on the site of Penkridge Market, and admission to the event is free.

With a wide selection of craft stalls, delicious food and drink, as well as plenty to keep the children entertained, what better way to get all of your Christmas shopping!

The Market will be bursting with local produce sell-ing everything you need for your Festive Feast, with the chance to sample lots of local delicacies.

There will also be a wide variety of refreshments available, including a hog roast; jacket potatoes, pizza and doughnuts to name but a few! The Old Deanery Farm Cafe will also be open serving hot drinks and festive food, including a traditional Turkey Dinner with all the

In addition to all this fabulous food, there will be Craft Stalls selling everything from handmade jewellery, gifts and handbags to rag dolls and wooden toys, making it easy to find unique presents for all your friends and

There will also be plenty to keep the children entertained, with Father Christmas making an extra-special guest appearance, as well as Punch and Judy.

There's also something for the older children with Arthur's Fun Fair, a fire eater and stilt walker. There will also be the church choir singing Christmas carols, to get everyone in the festive spirit.

Penkridge Market is located in the centre of Penk-ridge, which is just 7 miles from Stafford; 7 miles from Cannock and 10 miles from Wolverhampton and is easily accessible from the A449, A5 and M6 (junction 12). Parking and admission is free.

For further information on the event, please telephone 01785 713419 or log onto www.penkridgemarket.co.uk

The panto you've bean' waiting for brought to life in the Lichfield Garrick's own giant family panto.

This year, the much loved Graham Cole, best known for his role as Pc Tony Stamp in the ITV police drama The Bill, takes on the role of Hemlock, the Giant's 'evil' henchman. Graham is a familiar face to the Lichfield audience, having performed as Scrooge in 2011-12's A Christmas Carol.

For the ninth successive year, the pantomime is written and directed by lan Adams. Ian also returns as Lichfield's favourite Dame in the role of Dame Mary Trott.

With singing and dancing, stunning costumes and scenery, a tap-dancing 'Daisy the Cow', a team of 'Tempest Trolley Dollys', live music and plenty of audience participation, Jack and the Beanstalk promises to be a festive treat for all the family.

Tickets for Jack and the Beanstalk are on sale now and are selling quickly following the success of last year's re-cord-breaking show, Cinderella. Jack and the Beanstalk runs at the Lichfield Garrick from Thursday, December 3 to Sunday, January 3, 2016, with a variety of schools, matinee and evening performances. Ooh la la what a find

IF like me, you enjoy French cuisine, you must pay a visit to a superb bistro I found in a quaint Staffordshire village.

Situated about seven miles from Stafford, Bistro Le Coq is tucked away in Stowe-by-Chartley.

The bistro oozes rustic charm, from its mock doorway with French name plate, to a pretty little village window, dressed with window box. The attention to detail was a good indicator of how enjoyable the food might be. It proved to be accurate.

The wine list is extensive. We ordered a bottle of wine - Petit Chablis, Domaine de la Tour. The zesty and zingy white proved to be as beautifully balanced as it had promised.

The menu provided a quandary. I wanted almost everything. In the end

I settled for the intriguing savoury cheesecake starter if you will. It did not disappoint. Mandy's croquette de haddock proved a good choice also. Mandy was obviously in a seafood mood. Her main course of cod loin was beautifully cooked and nicely presented. I eventually settled on one of the duck dishes, opting for magret de canard. The generous portion of Barbary duck breastwas heavenly.

Dessert time. I opted for the tarte au citron. Mandy was a little full so decided upon a mini dessert with coffee.

The Whitehouse Brothers sell fresh and frozen food

Go along and get set to prepare the Christmas feast

Prepare for the big day

THE Whitehouse Brothers, Steve and Andy, have more than 65 years of experience between them.

The brothers have worked in the industry for many years, and then took a different path by opening their own meat supermarkets.

This offers people a butchers with massively discounted prices all day every day, including quality pork and beef from local suppliers.

They currently have four stores around the area. The first store is located in Burntwood, this was then followed by the Cannock store, and in 2013 they opened their third store in Hednesford.

Last year they opened their fourth store in Rugeley town centre, which is the only fresh meat independent retail shop in the town. They are proud of going from strength to strength and currently employ more than 75 people.

Whitehouse Brothers understand that your Christmas Lunch is the most important meal of the year, and they pride themselves on supplying top quality meats to help you enjoy the festive season and all year round.

"We have dedicated ourselves to bring you the best quality food at the best price possible," says Steve Whitehouse. "Our wide choice of Christmas Fare includes fresh and frozen turkey, fresh and frozen turkey breasts, geese, ducks and large chickens. And it's not just the festive bird that we can provide. We provide the trimmings including dry cured bacon, either sweet or smoked and pigs in blankets."

In June 2014, Whitehouse Brothers

In June 2014, Whitehouse Brothers also expanded their buffet service by opening new purpose built premises at the Cannock store.

Focus

This allows them to focus on their growing buffet trade, which offers a wide selection of own cooked meats & pies. Their buffet service either caters for your own party for any occasion, or especially for Christmas. Small buffets are also available for offices and companies, with a minimum charge for delivery.

"Our Christmas (all year round) Club a great way of easing the strain of Christmas, you simply put the money in each week or whenever you want to, then spend it at Christmas, but if you have money left you can still use when you wish," Steve continues.

"Christmas Hampers will be availa-

"Christmas Hampers will be available for Christmas week with a collection date of up to 12pm on Christmas Eve. Pre-order all your meat any time from now until approximately mid December. We also offer a loyalty and savings card which was introduced in July 2013.

"Buying a hamper is a great way to organise your festivities because you not only have all your Christmas Lunch sorted, but probably your New Year as well."

Whitehouse Brothers understands that most supermarkets sell meat and poultry at above average prices, whereas local butchers sell quality meat because the climate demands it," says Steve.

"At Whitehouse Brothers you can get the best of both worlds especially for Christmas. Our Christmas poultry prices have remained the same for the last four years, and have been half the price of most of the supermarkets. "For example, in 2012 our turkeys

"For example, in 2012 our turkeys and turkey crowns were nearly half the price of the supermarkets and the local butchers. We hope to be able to continue to do the same this year."

CD REVIEWS

Kim Lowings & The Greenwood Historia

THIS is Kim Lowings & The Greenwood's second album and is pretty much self-produced and financed.

The outfit, which has four core members of Lowings, Tim Rog-ers, Dave Sutherland and Andrew ers, Dave Sutheriand and Amero-Lowings, hails from Stourbridge. KLG are a pretty mellow, chilled out folk band with Lowings' gentle but powerful tones fronting the group. The album opens with Wood Wife a traditional dark tale about a hag who traditional dark tale about a hag who ensanares people with her storiest.

Lowings' silky, almost understated voice tells the tale wonderfully and simply. The album is a mix of traditional songs given her arrangement and songs inspired by her own experience and that of friends and family. I'm Still Here is a ballad about her leaving her job with Asda and the melaw that is very easy on the aer.

low tune is very easy on the ear.
Lullaby is a beautiful song which shows you Lowings not only has a gorgeous voice but a real talent for songwriting too.

writing too.

Lowings arrangement of the traditional Dark Eyed Sailor is really mellow and is lifted beautifully by the fiddle playing of the wonderfully named Anna-Margarita Teodorova Oprenova.

Instrumental Alfrick has the per-cussion skills of Rogers driving it along. KLG have found that chemistry between the four of them which creates something special and something which you can never quite describe or pin down but, like all good songs and music, you know it when you hear it.

Lucy Ward

I Dreamt I Was A Bird

A saying is attributed to St Jerome which is "Sometimes the truth causes offence, better the offence be caused than the truth suppressed." This could be the maxim of Derbyshire singer/songwriter Lucy Ward.

Her new studio album, the first on her own Betty Beetroot label, is fairly intense, it pulls few punches and carries such emotion in her singing and music it could almost be a therapy session rather than an album.

Listening to the tracks you become aware Ward knows how to ocalise her thoughts and the musings of her psyaware Ward knows how to vocalise her thoughts and the musings of her psyche perfectly, meticulously and with the edge of a surgical blade.

It opens with the haunting Summers That We Made. Ward's voice is so gentle and evocative, the descriptiveness of her words will paint pictures in the dullest of minds.

There is more than a touch of the

There is more than a touch of the silky tones of Sade in her voice. Ward can get to the heart of some serious and deep matters without being preachy or patronising.

Phillip Henry & Hannah Martin Watershed

When you have put out an album as memorable as Live At Calstock then coming up with something which is equal if not better is no mean feat.

Fortunately Phillip Henry and Han-nah Martin have the tools, the skills and the vision to pull it off. On this their third studio album they come as a band adding James Taylor and Matt Downer.

Henry has the ability to give his harmonica a voice which is almost as versatile as his partner's.

It's his gobiron which brings in the opening and title track. Not far behind is Martin's flowing and languid voice slipping in almost lazily to give this track a restful bucolic feel.

track a restful bucolic feel.

There are all sorts of sounds and incidentals going on in this song as if they are laying out their stall straight away, giving you the whole range of treats awaiting the listener.

Henry and Martin have gone exploring on this album, moving away from the traditional stories. However, they have kept their hallmark style.

The Adam is just over 12ft long, slightly longer than a MINI, and at 6ft 6in wide (if you include the mirrors) is one of the biggest in its class, slightly bigger than the Fiat 500 and the Audi A1.

Vauxhall has continued the fun with the name of the trims – they call them, Jam, Glam and Slam. Slam supposedly for a sporty ride, Jam is fashionable, and Glam is not previously considering the brand.

The ADAM itself is based on a Corsa platform which has been reduced – this gives you an indication of the size of the vehicle. There is a choice of engines, with a 1.2-litre, 1.4-litre and in my particular case for this test. a delightful 1-litre 3-cylinder 998cc engine, producing 115bhp and a very commendable low CO2 emission, which puts it in to the £30 per year tax bracket.

The combined fuel figures are quoted at 57mpg and I achieved 49mpg during my week on varied road surfaces, which I thought was quite reasonable.

All the models in the range get as stand-rd, air conditioning, remote central locking, a decent radio system, and there is also an option for a centre control screen which can display your phone, satnay and various other

From a driving and passenger perspective the ADAM, being in the small category, is a vehicle that has surprising qualities. It will comfortably seat four people but there will then be a luggage issue. Primarily, the ADAM is not really suitable to family life but it makes a very pleasant second vehicle.

Drawbacks I found were the three-door cess to the rear was awkward. And the

Over a million combinations of interior and exterior specifications make virtually no ADAM the same as another. Your bespoke ADAM starts with the order list' driver and passenger doors are huge. This translates in to requiring a large amount of space on a car park just to open the doors and allow driver and passengers to exit.

I really enjoyed driving the car, the engine seemed to be perfectly tuned to the size and the dynamics of the suspension, and the handling at all times was comfortable, precise and relatively comfortable.

All in all, the ADAM is a vehicle that allows you to customise to your heart's content, and when you see some of the variables in the colour schemes and add in

Audi A4 2.0 TDI ultra SE 150 PS

Connected,

economical

and quiet A4

It's not difficult to cherry pick the facts surrounding your new car – and present only those that flatter. Everyone does it.

So it was engagingly honest of Audi to show off its new A4 - vying for biggest seller in the range in the UK – with some figures that didn't put the newcomer at the top of every pile.

It shows supreme confidence in this ninth generation of its smaller saloon that the likely most popular version will be both worth less at three years of age and cost a fraction more to run than the almost-as-new Jaguar XE. Confidence rewarded, you'd have to say after a decent drive in the lower powered diesel, that there's enough right with the A4 to keep it near the top of the company car peck-

A bit lighter, bigger and roomier than before and packing enough technology (mostly at extra cost, though) to almost drive itself, this latest car is very obviously from the old A4

Even with a completely new platform to build the car or

Audi knows better than to make the newcomer look too different; added crispness and creases and a bolder front grille will let the anorak spot the subtly changed looks.

Those looks – and close attention to smooth the bits you can't see under the car – make this A4 the second most aerodynamic machine on sale today. Beaten by a small Mercedes, whispers Audi, being happy about runner-up

That aero slipperiness makes for better economy and keeps things quiet inside; both features a test drive in the

Competitive

After a brisk jog along a varied mix of roads, the dash readout showed 62mpg (the official average is an unrealistic 74.3mpg). That counts as outstanding in a car that comfortably fits four grown men (there's a little more rear legroom this time) and never felt anything less than properly pow-

A top speed of 130mph and 0-62mph time of 8.9 seconds are competitive and there's more power available with a bigger 3.0 litre diesel or more potent version of the test car's 2.0 litre engine.

With 148bhp from its diesel powerplant this version of the

A4 will be number one choice for the office car fleet, with its 99g/km tailpipe emissions qualifying for zero road tax. That 's the sort of thing that makes a fleet manager very happy. It also makes for happy occupants, in a car that is so quiet at a motorway cruise it's almost unnerving. Helped on the test car by £200 worth of double glazed front door windows, there was literally almost no wind noise. The engine stays firmly in the distance too - much more hushed than in Jag-

The new A4 range starts at £25,900 for a model with 1.4

petrol engine and tops out, for the moment with the £38,950

3.0 diesel with quattro four-wheel drive. Estate car versions

Standard kit includes alloy wheels, xenon headlights, climate control and a seven inch colour monitor. You'll need to pay extra on the test car for satellite navigation (£550 and surely a given at this level), while heated front seats (£300)

They include using the sat nav to read the road ahead and suggest you slow down for bends, and allowing the car to take over in a traffic jam and steer, brake and accelerate

Audi reckons the way a car handles is less important these days than how it connects a driver to the outside world, and is probably right. So the quiet riding, economical and highly connected new A4 doesn't need to play second and adjustable lumbar support (£250) add to the bill Reach higher up the range and be prepared to pay still more and a myriad of electronic features beckon.

Honda and the Beatles share year of so many memories

By Sharon Walters

It was the year the Beatles performed the first stadium concert in the history of music, while cartoon heroes Tom and Jerry and the puppet-tastic Thunderbirds first aired on TV. Cigarette advertising was banned on British TV, the Sound of Music premiered and Churchill was buried. On top of that DJ Jazzy Jeff, Alan Cumming, Brooke Shields and Honda's very own Karen Parry were born.

1965 also saw the year Honda first started trading in the UK.

It also saw the first Grand Prix win for Honda in the legendary RA272, thanks to Ritchie Ginther at the Mexico Grand Prix.

In the last five decades, Honda has achieved milestone after milestone.

Now one of the top 20 biggest brands in the world, Honda employs over 182,000 employees worldwide and has 40 manufacturing facilities making everything from a 25cc leaf blower to a $4m business jet.

Last year, global sales hit 27.3million units, made up of 17 million motorcycles, six million power products and 4.3million cars.

The European arm employs 8,000 people and last year sold almost 1.4million products.

➂

Global

This year also sees 30 years of Honda of the UK Manufacturing (HUM). A 370 acre site in Swindon employing 3,200 people, HUM has benefitted from a self-funded total investment of \mathfrak{L} 2.2bn over the years and will become the global production hub for the five door Civic.

The motorcycles division is number one in the UK market with almost 20 per cent market share. With a product range spanning 65 models, last year, Honda sold 19,000 bikes in the UK

The power products range has 225 models and last year sold in excess of 50,000 units.

Honda is the number one ATV manufacturer in the UK and the third largest outboard manufacturer.

From a motorsport perspective in the UK, we have the most successful BSB team in the UK and the BTCC team just won the drivers and manufacturers championships for 2015.

Philip Crossman, managing director at Honda UK, commented: "This year marks our golden anniversary in the UK with fifty years of rich history in trading bikes, power products and cars.

"While this year has been significant in refreshing the car range in its entirety and launching several important new bikes, the Japanese way is to take a much longer viewpoint than just 12 months.

"Our business has changed radically over since it launched in the swinging sixties, adapting and evolving to suit the demands of riders and drivers over the years.

"I can well imagine that Honda will be a completely different organisation in 2065 – but still selling quality and trusted cars, bikes and power products."

Tourer practicality but sport car look

By Ian Donaldson

We'll never know how close the new Subaru came to being called the Galuto, Acolin or Cyting before the company decided on Levorg.

It's a mix of the words Legacy (a well respected existing car from Subaru), Revolution and Touring. So the other three work just as well.

Beneath this unusual moniker sits a car that might have been designed especially for a limited number of potential car buyers, all of them deeply wedded to Subaru's design

So the Levorg features three features bound up with the very idea of a modern Subaru, all items that the select band of Subaru faithful find essential in the car of their dreams. They are, from the front, an engine whose four cylinders

They are, from the front, an engine whose four cylinders sit flat to the ground, unlike the tall block of oiliness usually found under a bonnet. This puts the weight closer to the road and the car ought to attack corners with less lean in the process.

Then – back a little – we come to the front wheels. Which in the Levorg's case are given the same amount of power to transmit as the pair at the back.

Yes, it's permanent four-wheel drive, another Subaru article of faith and the saviour of many a country vet on a wet, slippery road deep in a Yorkshire dale.

And, sitting behind that lie-flat engine is a gearbox without any gears, or more accurately, only one, which varies itself as you push the throttle harder. That, theoretically at least, ought to mean the engine is always performing at its most economical. We'll see.

Holding all the mechanical bits together is an estate car body that has more space inside for people and luggage than the last Legacy Tourer. Subaru reckons it has the 'imposing presence of a sports car with the practicality of a tourer', which is pushing it a bit. To these eyes the Levorg looks like a sensible estate car with a big bonnet scoop hinting at a rally-filled past.

If you think all of the above marks Subaru out as a company that ploughs its own furrow, you'd be right. It expects to sell a modest 500 Levorgs in a full year in the UK and you can bet there are that number of potential buyers for whom this car – and no other – fits the bill precisely.

Once the decision is taken that it's going to be new Levorg on the drive, there is little else to consider, except the colour. The car comes with but a single choice of equipment (thankfully, there's a lot of it) and in just three metallic colours—crey white or blue ours – gréy, white or blue.

Rivals – the Volvo V60 and Mazda6 estate are mentioned by Subaru – offer lots more choice (diesels, front drive only and manual gearboxes, for instance) but that is never the point with a Subaru. Owners love them for their individuality.

They will also like the Levorg for its kit count, which includes LED headlights, 18 inch alloy wheels, keyless access, leather seats (heated in the front), navigation with a big touchscreen, dual zone air conditioning and a rear parking camera.

Out on a mix of scenic Yorkshire roads, the Levorg's new turbocharged 1.6 litre petrol engine felt stronger than its quoted 168bhp and the CVT transmission avoided the soaring revs that used to mark keen use of similar systems. In fact, on the right (smoothish) surface the Levorg cracks along with enthusiasm. Rougher roads produced an unwelcome pattering from the wheels but the car never felt less than welded to the road. We didn't try for the claimed 130mph top speed or 0-62mph dash in 8.9 seconds.

The test car showed 31mpg on its clear trip computer after a morning's work; not a bad return, if inevitably shy of the official 39.8mpg. The car's 164g/km CO2 output attracts £180 annual road tax.

Like every Subaru in living memory, there is an indestructible feel about an interior that looks well ordered if a bit plain and obviously meant to do the business for years and years.

Buckle up for smooth ride in the new BMW3

By Matt Kimberley

You'll need your strongest magnifying glass to see the tiny nips and tucks at the front and rear, but the financially savvy will notice the improvements that have been made to the fuel economy and emissions of various models.

There's now a version that dips to 99a/km, earning free road tax – although to get it you'll need to add the £1,550 automatic gearbox. You'll have to do the maths on that one.

The front bumper is a little less sculpted than before, with a greater emphasis on horizontal lines. That's to cater for the tastes of larger markets than ours. The 3 Series is still an image-focused car, though, proudly displaying the correct badge for business types and feeling very much the part on the inside, too.

You could argue that when it comes to premium cars, the domination of the three-box saloon is not as strong as it once was, but there's still a strong following for what has been a hugely popular and influential model in Britain. It you've got a new 3 Series, you're doing alright.

There's a big boot behind the three rear seats, with recessed pins at the sides and a large aperture that lets you nonchalantly slot larger cases straight in. In the front there are useful door bins, and while you won't fit much into the glovebox, the cabin is very spacious for passengers.

Legroom in the back is ample, and more accommodating than it looks because the 3 Series has longer rear squares than many one provides care that the case that the case of the ca cessed bins at the sides and a large aperture that lets you seat squabs than many non-premium cars that use shorter squabs to increase the appearance of space.

Leather-covered surfaces are potentially vulnerable to the rigours of family life, but that's pretty much a given in this part of the market.

The 320d is likely to be the biggest seller. The efficiency numbers are impressive and that optional eight-speed automatic gearbox is superb, despite the hefty price tag. The test car only had around 500 miles on it so the engine was almost certainly still at its tightest, but it's fair to say that it fell nowhere near as brisk as its on-paper 188bhp and 295lb/fi suggest.

What you do get is super-stable handling and oodles of grip on the larger wheels of M Sport versions, and well-controlled floatiness on the Efficient Dynamics (ED Plus) model and its tiny-looking but efficiency-boosting 16-inch alloys. Avoid the inconsistent Servotronic steering, though, which completely ruins the standard set-up's linearity and direct-

There's good visibility in all directions, which is handy be-cause you don't sit too high. Using the iDrive is a joy these days, and if you upgrade the standard BMW Business navi-gation to the Professional grade you're rewarded with a wider, sharper screen with more functionality.

er, snaper screen with more functionally.
It's not a cheap step up, though. My pick of the options is the superb head-up display. Again, it's pricey, but once you've had it you'll wonder how you ever managed without.
With options the 320D xDrive I drove totalled £46,000.

That's a terrifying, absurd figure you should run away from. A standard but very well equipped 335d, with all its lovely torque, is less than £41,000.

Many of BMW's options are simply replacing existing systems with better versions rather than adding crucial new tech, so stick as close to standard spec as you can. In Sport trim and with the automatic added, the 320d is arguably cheaper to own than rivals from Mercedes, Audi and Jaquar

This is a car with a long-standing trail of success in this country, but its days as the default upgrade from a Mondeo or Passat have been ended by the splurge of crossovers and compact SUVs, most of which are waving the 'premium' flag as hard as they can. The BMW might be becoming the understated choice, but it still drives and handles better than any of its high-riding rivals.

This car summed up in a single word: Classic

If this car was a: kitchen table it would be from the mainstay range at an oak furniture shop. It's robust, looks smart and feels solid, carrying with it a style that will never go out of fashion

Don't shut the door on latest Mini Clubman

By Matt Kimberley

Mini has gone back to the drawing board with the Clubman, finally shaking off the confusing single rear door that was on the wrong side for British roads. The new one is longer, wider and more practical, with a view to targeting the likes of the Audi A1.

Under the bonnet you'll find the latest turbocharged BMW Group engines, based on 500cc cylinders. You get 1.5-litre three-cylinder options and 2.0-litre four-pots in both petrol and diesel, and all are as effective as a spring-loaded boxing glove alarm clock on your round headlights.

The front end is great; all curvaceous bonnet and cute

Move around to the sides and you'll find the two completely normal doors on each stretched-looking flank.

The back desn't share the same triumph of simplicity. It's more of a mess, with light clusters and badging that just don't work aesthetically, at least to these eyes. Splitting the 'Clubman' lettering across the two doors leaves four letters on the left and three on the right. The OCD in me just isn't OK with that.

Mini is quite proud of this car's 360-litre boot, and it's a fact that the Clubman makes the three-door Mini hatch-back's boot seem like a small handbag.

There's also a neat and little-known trick where the seats can be angled forwards, making them vertical, before re-securing them on brackets. That raises the potential to carry larger objects or increase that 360 litres to a level that at least equals the best in class.

You can still use the Isofix child seat mounts when the rear seats are cantered forwards, too.

Options

Elsewhere there's room for 1.5 and 1.0-litre bottles (at the same time) in the front door pockets. The glove box is larger than you'd expect, and there's an adjustable boot floor.

Typically, the Clubman needs a bit of money spending on options to make it feel special. Navigation is standard, though, and you get the very impressive screen and iDrive interface, too. But the stereo, upholstery and wheels all benefit from upgrades if you can afford it.

The steering is very quick, and seems to get faster after leaving the straight-ahead. It's easy to put too much lock on until you're used to it. This Cooper S model is plenty quick enough in a straight line thanks to its smooth and incredible the order to the straight of the straight line thanks to its smooth and incredible the order to the straight line thanks to its smooth and incredible the order to the straight line thanks to its smooth and incredible the smooth line thanks the smooth line thanks to its smooth line thanks the smooth line thanks the smooth line thanks the smooth bly flexible 2.0-litre engine, but it could use a more exciting hoise to keep it company.

Most body types will find the seats supportive and comfortable. That helps concentration, which is handy because outward visibility isn't the best, especially when the head-up display is active. Lots of headroom means you'd better raise hat seat up for an improved view.

At the basic on-the-road price the Cooper S is something

At the basic orinter-lad pine the cooper's is sometimey of a bargain compared to, say, a Volkswagen Golf GTI, but add the options you really want (or need, for residual value's sake) and the playing field is quickly levelled.

Be careful with the throttle and you could see over 60mpg on a 50mph cruise. That plunges with the enthusiastic stomping the engine tempts out of your right foot, but the potential is there if you really want to save fuel.

Anyone looking at a well-specced Golf or A1 could benefit from a look at the Clubman. The twin boot doors have one or two advantages for practicality, and recesses in the front seat backs make sure there's enough room for four aver-age-height adults without breaking a sweat. It could be a useful – and stylish – car for any two-child family.

This car summed up in a single word: Different If this car was a: Weetabix. it would be covered in jam. Perhaps it's not the most obvious choice, but once you try it...

MiTo and Giulietta uprated

By James Parker

The Alfa Romeo MiTo and Alfa Romeo Giulietta ranges have both been enhanced by new trim levels. A new Collezione specification is available in both the Alfa Romeo MiTo and Giulietta models, while a new Sprint Speciale version joins the Alfa Romeo Giulietta range.

The Collezione versions are the new luxury flagships of their respective ranges, offering a more luxurious and elegant specification than the sporty QV Line models. In the case of the Alfa Romeo MiTo Collezione, standard equipment includes 17-inch 'Collezione Bronze' alloy wheels with matching bronze-effect door mirrors and satin-effect headlight and tail light surrounds.

The interior is trimmed in special Collezione cloth and eco-leather upholstery, with brown stitching on the flat-bottom steering wheel, gear knob and handbrake gaiter. A split-folding, three-seat rear bench, sports dials, special Collezione vintage floor mats and a Uconnect™ NAV infotainment system with TomTom satellite navigation and DAB radio round out the extremely high specifi-

Offered with a choice of a 0.9-litre TwinAir Turbo 105hp or 1.4-litre Turbo Petrol 140hp engines (the latter with Alfa Romeo's sixspeed ALFA TCT twin-clutch transmission and uprated Brembo brakes as standard) the Alfa Romeo MiTo Collezione is priced at £17.660 on-the-road and £19.210 on-the road respectively.

The Alfa Romeo Giulietta Collezione builds on high specification of the Exclusive trim level but stands out even further from the crowd thanks to its signature gloss-black painted roof with matching door mirrors, front and rear parking sensors and unique, dark-finish, 18-inch multi-spoke alloy wheels.

Leather

Inside, the seats are trimmed in bespoke 'Collezione' leather with heating on the front seats and the luxurious ambience is complimented by a 6.5-inch Uconnect™ NAV system with advanced voice operated satellite navigation with 3D mapping and DAB digital radio as standard

Prices for the Alfa Romeo Giulietta Collezione start at £24,820 for the 1.4 MultiAir Turbo Petrol 170hp six-speed manual, or £26,245 with the six-speed Alfa TCT twin-clutch trans-

The diesel Alfa Romeo Giulietta Collezione range starts at £25,680 for the 2.0 JTDM-2 150hp manual, with the 2.0 JTDM-2 175hp ALFA TCT version completing the new Collezione range at £27,840.

Amid all this luxury, Alfa Romeo hasn't forgotten its cuore sportivo, however: A new Alfa Romeo Giulietta Sprint Speciale also joins the range, building on the specification of the Sprint model to offer ever more perfor-mance-oriented equipment. The Sprint Speciale adds sports suspension, 17-inch sports alloy wheels, Brembo brakes, aluminium pedals and Quadrifoglio-style sports seats as standard, along with dual-zone climate Collezione versions are the new luxury flagships.

control, rear parking sensors, special silver dashboard trim, the 'Visibility Pack' and cruise control

The Sprint Speciale engine range includes the 1.4 TB MultiAir 150hp, priced from £23,320 with a six-speed manual or £24,745 with the six-speed ALFA TCT

dle-shifters)

The Alfa Romeo Giulietta Sprint Speciale powered by the 2.0 JTDM-2 150hp is priced from £24,180 while the 2.0 JTDM-175hp ALFA TCT version is priced from £26.340 on-the-road.

DRIVETIME

This hot hatch is one for the future

Since cars are a rapidly depreciating By John Griffiths yet essential asset, owning one that isn't just utilitarian transport but actually puts a smile on your face is a big plus.

And there are miles of smiles to be had with Peugeot's latest hot hatch, the 308GTi.

It isn't just the blistering performance or the excellent dynamic handling, it's a recognition that the engineers have gone back to the future with some technical trickery that doesn't even involve

It's powered by a 'mere' 1,600cc engine just like the lowest powered version of its iconic 205Gti which ruled the hot hatch scene 30 years ago.

Don't be fooled. The 205 produced 104bhp (later models had a bit more) which was enough for thrilling performance in a lightweight car. But today's turbocharged power plant in the 308GTi is capable of turning out a staggering 250 or 270bhp (there are two versions) making it the most powerful engine of its size in any production car.

And true to its heritage, the car hasn't been on a diet of cake and chocolate either. It's still a lightweight, with a little over 9lbs (4.46kg) of weight for

Not only does the Peugeot have an edge over many two-litre cars in the current line-up of hot hatch competitors in terms of outright power, the power/weight combination means better acceleration and dynamic handling as well as lower fuel use and emissions. At least when neither car nor driver is in sport mode, anyway – a steady 70mph motorway run would see you averaging well into the 40s in mpg terms.

The 308GTi was engineered by Peugeot Sport, the French company's specialists responsible for its success in many fields of motor sport over the years, So the exceptionally powerful 1.6 litre unit isn't just a result of turning up the wick on the turbo (although they have), the lower part of the engine has been strengthened and uses special low friction components.

The suspension was designed specifically for the GTi, which sits 11mm lower, and the more focussed 270bhp version has a torsen (torque sensing) differential for enhanced cornering ability and huge, fade resistant brakes which would give a race driver confidence.

The performance figures are pure GTi: 0 to 62mph takes six seconds in the 270 (6.2 for the 250), but for real world driving the crucial over-taking zone of 50 to 75mph is equally impressive just 5.7 seconds for either car.

Then take a look at the economy figures of 47mpg and 132g/km for such a quick car and you see the advantages of a smaller capacity, turbo-charged engine and light weight – and more best in class figures for Peugeot.

Both versions have a 'sport' button which sharpens throttle response and alters the tune from the twin big bore exhausts to an even deeper growl.

The prices are £26,555 for the 250 version, and £28,155 for the 270. The £1,600 differential seems almost strangely small but it does ensure that even the more focussed model is still highly competitive. For that money the addition of racebred brakes, torsen diff, bigger alloys, lower pro-file tyres and body hugging Peugeot Sport bucket seats seem like a bargain.

If you're in the market for a car in this class.

it's a tough decision. The 250bhp car would give most all they want in terms of performance and superb dynamic handling, and the advantages endowed by the extra kit on the flagship car are more likely to be appreciated on a test track than on public roads.

The torsen differential, for example, instantly grip so that you can put down more power, and earlier, through a corner. Near the limit it actually feels like you're being pulled around, and on a tighter line. But then on the road, both cars have already had their front suspension geometry altered to resist understeer, while that at the rear is stiffer to limit body roll and ensure maximum grip.

The 250 may not get the full-on bucket seats, but its own sports seats will still hold you firmly but comfortably through the twisty bits. The sports suspension on both is, of course, firm and feels it on some of our B-roads, but in dynamic terms it handles such surfaces well without being bounced off track or scrabbling for grip

Both models are also well-equipped as befits flagship of the 308 range with climate control, a 9/7 inch colour touch screen controlling satnay, audio and communications systems plus reversing camera, tinted windows, cruise control/speed limiter, front and rear parking sensors and power

There are the expected GTi touches.of course such as aluminium style pedals, leather steering wheel and specific Gti mats, as well as the sports

That's on top of the standard 308 safety sys tems such as multiple airbags, stability programme and ABS.

There's a sense that with the 308Gti Peuge ot has gone back to its illustrious past and THE hot hatch of its day, the 205. They're both 1600s (albeit today's car has two and a half times the power), both very competitively priced, both light weight, and both have excellent dynamics

But the 308 is also very much a GTi for the fu-ture because it offers so much more performance for less fuel and CO2. You're getting a full-size hatchback with lots of oomph and smile potential with running costs on a par with many a much less inspiring family saloon - except perhaps for a GTi insurance rating. But then that's life!

Speedway champ Tai coming to meet fans

DOUBLE world champion Tai Woffinden will be in Wolverhamp-ton to meet fans for one night only later this month.

The Scunthorpe-born Wolves asset is currently in Perth, where he spent his childhood, but is making a whistle-stop return to making a window.

Europe.

He will attend the FIM gala awards dinner on November 22 where he will be officially recognised as the sport's top rider in the last three seasons – and will also last three seasons – and will also appear at the Cleveland Arms in Wolverhampton on November 26 to meet his public. He will be joined by Sky Sports duo Kelvin Tatum and Nigel Pear-ouo Reivin Latum and Nigel Fear-son for what promises to be an emotional evening. Said Woffinden: "I'm just trying to take everything in with what's happened and winning the title for a second time, it still doesn't seem quite real.

"I'm enjoying my time here in Perth catching up with everyone, it's nice and I'm trying to relax and take stock of everything."

and take stock of everything.

"I'm honoured to be heading back to Europe, firstly for the FIM gala dinner which is a very special and prestigious occasion and both Faye and I are looking forward to that.

"I'm also keeping a promise I made in February by going back to the Cleveland Arms; Will and the team always make me feel really welcome there and I'm looking forward to the night.

"I look forward to catching up with my British fans again after an amazing year."

an amazing year."
Tickets are £10 andavailable

Gordon is the new owner of Harriers club

FOOTBALL agent Colin Gordon has taken over ownership of Kidderminster Harriers - saying his main aim is survival.

In the club's first major change at the top since the Millenium, it was also revealed chairman Rod Brown will continue to head up the board of directors.

The club's previous three largest shareholders - Neil Savery, Jane Murrant and Barry Norgrove - all agreed to hand over their shares to Gordon for a nominal amount.

The aim for Gordon, who has been working as Harriers' football development director and played for the club, is for the Aggborough outfit to seek other revenue.

"We need to start looking at other areas, rather than just gate receipts and bar revenues," he said.

be praised enough for masterminding what was an important victory, both in terms of supporter morale, and the bigger picture of the play-offs. In reducing the gap to sixth-placed Blues to six points, it keeps their heads above water in the play-off race.

It also eases the pressure on Jackett, who knows that a season of drifting aimlessly along in mid-table obscurity with no hope of a push at the top six would probably cost him his job.

Surprise

But aside from a well-planned and well-delivered strategy, there was more behind this surprise victory.

Ikeme's last league match came in August. But since then he has played four times for Nigeria as he launches a belated international career aged 29.

able to play that much with Wolves this season so getting a few games for Nigeria has kept me going really.

"It's been a really welcome boost. Obviously I've not been playing much, it's not easy, so it gives me a week or 10-day break to go away and give me something else to focus on."

The popular shot-stopper has played Nigeria's last four matches (keeping two clean sheets) after earning his first call up for the Super Eagles – managed by legendary former midfielder Sunday Oliseh – in September.

İkeme admits playing for a football-mad country

And with long-time number one keeper Vincent Enyeama retiring from international football earlier this month, Ikeme has an opportunity to claim the goalkeeper's jersey for the long term.

"Hopefully I can establish myself," he said. "I'm not sure about the situation with Vincent, if I get to play it's an honour and hopefully I can continue to build on the first four games.

"Obviously everyone dreams of playing in the African Cup of Nations or a World Cup and ultimately that is the aim, but at the moment I'm just concentrating on the next matches in November.
